

Press information – raumplus receives Iconic Award 2017 for sliding door S1200 LED

EXCELLENT: SLIDING DOOR S1200 LED RECEIVES ICONIC AWARD

With the innovative illuminated sliding door S1200 LED raumplus has created a design highlight, which, by changing the lighting temperature, is able to stimulate human biorhythms in a completely natural way. The sliding door with adjustable light brightness and color functions has now been honoured with the Ionic Award 2017 in the »product« category.

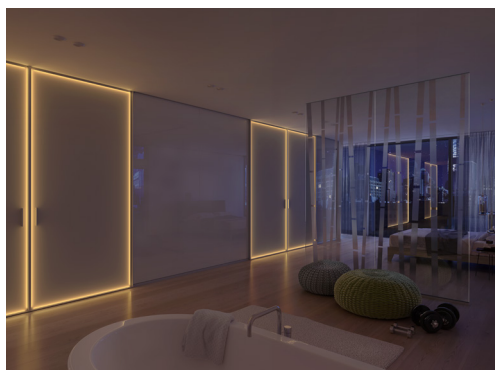

She doesn't need to hide her light under a bushel – industrial designer Nane-Sophie Bergmann's newly developed S1200 LED sliding door can be regarded as the raumplus high-light.

The power supply is delivered via an energy chain running inside the door's top guiding rail. It can be regulated using a remote control with features for switching the lights on and off; for dimming them; and for varying the light colour.

The joy was great for raumplus managing director Uta Bergmann and her team when the sliding door has now won the »Iconic Award 2017«. After winning the »Home Style Awards 2016« and being nominated for the »German Design Award 2018«, the „Iconic Award“ is the third prestigious award in a row.

The »Iconic Award« acknowledges visionary architecture, innovative products and sustainable communication from all fields of architecture, the construction and property sectors and the manufacturing industry in five main categories. As such the competition shines the spotlight on the elementary significance of the interaction of individual disciplines. It centres on the integrated and consistence presentation of products in architecture. The winners will receive their awards at a festive award ceremony in the BMW World in Munich on Oktober 4th, 2017.
